Founded nearly 40 years ago, Lundquist Realty & Vacation Rentals, Inc. one of the oldest family owned and operated firms, is recognized for expertise in real estate and the process of financing. They have a special niche for the vacation rental market and property management.

Meeting the specific needs of each client, Lundquist Realty and Vacation Rentals, Inc. is proud of their reputation for customer commitment. “We feature some of the most beautiful properties on the peninsula, whether for sale, purchase, or rental,” said Andrea. “Renting with us has become very desirable for many.

“Door County is a jewel and we see people visit from all over the United States, as well as overseas. Somehow they all have the ‘Door County connection,’” she related. “Many of our renters become buyers following a stay on the peninsula. Being experts in this area we are very pleased to assist them in finding their own piece of heaven in Door County.”

Featuring more than 130 rental properties, Warren and Andrea Lundquist have identified a pattern amongst their clients. “As more people are buying or building second homes in Door County, they view their property as potentially revenue generating. Vacationers—whether for long or short stays—desire a rental property because it affords them privacy, size, freedom, and the comforts of home.

“We match up renters with the property that is just right for them. The service we provide the property owner includes the security of knowing we are managing the rental for them. And we go the extra mile, doing the little extras that assure the owner their property is valued and taken care of,” smiled Andrea.

But the tradition of renting a Lundquist-managed property often concludes with the purchase of a property. “Our vacation rental clients fall in love with Door County—its natural beauty, the arts, the people,” Warren reported. “Before long, they become our real estate clients.”

A historical legacy that began with his father Quinten Lundquist, Warren and his wife Andrea—assisted by daughter Quinn—are not only continuing the tradition of offering the best their expertise has to offer, but also striving to preserve Door County’s natural beauty. “We have enjoyed helping customers find their ideal property,” Warren said. “Whether buying, selling or renting, we do our best to serve the needs of our clients.” FIW
